

David Wood

David has served the Archdiocese of Galveston-Houston as director of the Office of Worship since 2001. After studying electronics for several years, David earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in theology from the University of Dallas and then a Master of Arts in Liturgical Studies from St. John's University in Collegeville, Minnesota. He has served in various capacities from pastoral council at St. Mark's in the Diocese of Dallas, pastoral associate at Christ the King Cathedral in the Diocese of Lubbock, director of liturgy at St. Ignatius in the Archdiocese of Galveston-Houston, coordinator of the Office of Worship and Spiritual life for his home diocese of Pueblo, Colorado, to his current position with the archdiocese.

As exciting as all of that may have been, David's claim to fame is his wonderful wife Sylvia of 27 years and their three terrific children Matthew, Michelle and Micah. In his "spare time" he relaxes with Sylvia. When he has time (and energy), he dabbles in computer technology and home maintenance.
