

Dr Nic Kormas

Senior Staff Specialist Endocrinologist at Concord Repatriation General, Camden and Campbelltown Hospitals

Dr Kormas initiated and is the Head of The Metabolic Rehabilitation Programs (Diabetes, Fatty Liver & Obesity Hypoventilation Syndrome) at Camden and Concord Repatriation General Hospitals. These programs are intensive interdisciplinary programs managing adults with severe obesity and obesity related diseases.

He has experience in integrating multidisciplinary diabetes and obesity programs run by non-government organisations, with hospital run programs. Examples include the HEAL Program run by Medicare Locals in 2011-2015 & the BEAT it Program run by Diabetes Australia.

He is the Coordinator of the Sydney Local Hospital District Publically Funded Bariatric Surgery Program, the largest program in NSW, from its initiation in 2009 to date.

Recent research interests are in the areas of obesity and diabetes, although he has publications in peer reviewed journals in the areas of obesity medicine, diabetes, endocrinology & metabolic bone disease.