Welcome Students!

Petfood Forum USA

The future of the pet food industry is here

Petfood Forum, Petfood Industry magazine and WATT Global Media look forward to hosting the next generation of pet food professionals currently studying animal nutrition, packaging and process technology programs at leading universities. The goal of this program is to provide an opportunity for students interested in the pet food industry as a career to attend our educational conference, networking activities and exhibition. Students will have the opportunity to meet with industry professionals and gain connections to help facilitate making the pet food industry a viable career choice. At the new daily "Meet & Greet", students will have the opportunity to meet with industry professionals and gain connections to help facilitate making the pet food industry a viable career choice (see online Schedule for details).
