

Over the past decade Austea, has been supporting the creation of this brand new industry, sharing its vision with Australian farmers, recognising the magnificent and ever growing opportunity to be a player, in today's global tea market.

Many Australian tea farmers, up until recently, have been growing exclusively for the Japanese market. But now, with the support of Austea-headed by a new team of industry professionals with decades of experience- we have created a new brand, designed to showcase the finest Australian teas and Indigenous tisanes, from plantations across Australia.

AUSTEA, proudly represents small to medium family owned plantations, from all the different growing regions within Australia, using clean and green biological farming methods.

Welcome to Austea.
