

FOMIS Update

Anthony Hull

FOMIS Manager
CurtissWright
727.669.3045
Ahull@curtisswright.com

Biography

Anthony is currently the FOMIS Manager, with secondary duties including Project Management and Operational Excellence. He joined Curtiss-Wright in 2014 as a FOMIS Client Manager, and has prior experience in manufacturing, as a Stationary Engineer, and over a decade in the Naval Nuclear Power Program. Anthony has held a variety of roles in operations, training, maintenance, and engineering, and holds a BS in Chemical Engineering from the University of South Florida.

Abstract

FOMIS (Fossil Operations and Maintenance Information Service) leverages personal relationships with clients and our proprietary database of industry experience to foster a culture of information exchange and continuous improvement. Client Managers provide profound value to our clients by collecting and aggregating industry knowledge on topics deemed important by our clients. The current update makes available document sharing and improved search functionality, along with a simplified interface and a modern appearance.