VIVO 2015 Conference

*Hyatt Regency Cambridge
Cambridge, MA
August 12 – 14, 2015*

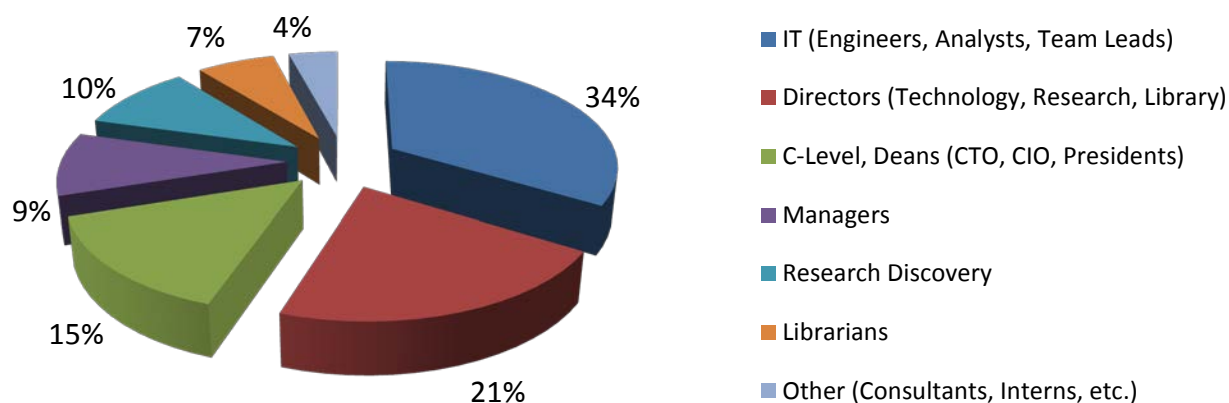

Welcome to the 2015 VIVO Sponsorship Prospectus!

Make plans now to join us for the 6th Annual VIVO Conference, to be held in Cambridge, MA, August 12-14, 2015.

Sponsors of the 2015 VIVO Conference will have the special opportunity to market to more than 250 professionals in higher education and research including:

- Scientists
- Developers
- Publishers
- Funding Agencies
- Research Officers
- Collaborators
- Institutional Representatives

The VIVO Conference

The VIVO conference exists to allow a national network of scientists, including professionals from around the globe, to come together in the spirit of promoting scholarly collaboration and discovery of research. It provides the opportunity for colleagues and professionals to exchange ideas on research discovery and its impact on science.

What is VIVO?

- VIVO is an exciting software application used by institutions of higher education and research which empowers them to share information and discover opportunities for collaboration.
- VIVO's goal is to improve science by providing the means for sharing and using current, accurate, and precise information regarding scientists' interests, activities and accomplishments globally.
- VIVO is an open source semantic web application originally developed in 2004 at Cornell University. It enables the discovery of research and scholarship across disciplines at that institution and beyond.
- VIVO is funded by the National Institutes of Health. It is populated with detailed profiles of faculty and researchers; displaying items such as publications, teaching, service and professional affiliations. It contains powerful search functionality for locating people and information within or across institutions.
- VIVO was originally funded by Cornell University and the National Institutes of Health (U24 RR029822) and is currently a community-supported incubator project under the DuraSpace umbrella.
