Achievement in Sustainable Development:
Focus on Maternal and Infant Health

In September 2015, members of the United Nations adopted 17 Sustainable Development Goals designed to achieve by 2030 the eradication of poverty in all its forms as well as protect the planet from degradation, and generally ensure that all human beings can enjoy prosperous and fulfilling lives. The new award for Achievement in Sustainable Development recognizes initiatives that successfully address the challenges highlighted by the Sustainable Development Goals, focusing each year on different goals or targets. This category is open to all financial and non-financial private sector organizations, as well as NGOs that meet the judging criteria.

Focus on Maternal and Infant Health: This award relates to Goal 3: "Ensure healthy lives and promote well-being for all at all ages", looking specifically at maternal and infant health. Although significant strides have been made in increasing life expectancy in this area, much more needs to be done to reduce the impact of a wide range of diseases and address persistent and emerging health issues.
