We often define ourselves by things that are ‘outside’ of us: even our own bodies. But what would it mean to have your life dramatically altered and your body irrevocably damaged? Janine describes her quest to find meaning and fulfilment after a life changing accident that left her paralysed, and how the quality of ‘defiance’ has allowed her to reinvent her life in a most remarkable way.
When asked to imagine what the future of rural health in Australia will be, stakeholders often hold very different images depending on the worldview they adopt. We explore these perspectives and how they are similar and different, and what impact these are likely to have in shaping the future of rural health. These images are viewed through a systemic lens and what emerges is that the futures of rural health seem to be caught between the economic assumptions of policy makers and the lived experience of people in conditions that are typified by increasing isolation and increasingly challenging environments.

KEYNOTE: STRONGER LEADERS - HARNESSING THE WISDOM OF ABORIGINAL CULTURE AND PHILOSOPHY

Paul Callaghan, CEO/Founder, Callaghan Cultural Consultancy

Everyone knows how important good leadership is in delivering cost effective, high quality health services. It is a holy grail that many seek. Paul will be providing a view of leadership that differs from the standard models and paradigms. His views will hopefully challenge and stimulate. They are based on 17 years in government executive roles and 20 years of immersion in traditional Aboriginal culture.

Paul believes there is a better way of leading that embraces the Western and Aboriginal worlds.
