

Join your colleagues & help make a difference Enrol for the Operating with Respect course

You are invited to participate on the Operating with Respect (OWR) course scheduled Tuesday 16 October 2018 alongside the NZOHNS ASM.

While the OWR e-learning module allows surgeons to gain an awareness and understanding of unacceptable behaviour, the OWR course is an evidence-based course designed to equip surgeons with practical strategies and skills necessary for responding to unacceptable behaviour. The course aims to help all surgeons create a safer and more respectful workplace that impacts on how trainees learn and on the quality of surgical care.

Format

A one-day interactive course facilitated by RACS Fellows with hands-on practice on responding to instances of unacceptable behaviour.

Registration

To enrol, simply register your expression of interest. You will receive confirmation of your enrolment within three days.

Fee

As a Fellow, this course is provided to you free of charge.

Contact

If you have any enquiries, please email: OWR@surgeons.org or visit www.surgeons.org/owr

Royal Australasian College of Surgeons
250-290 Spring Street
East Melbourne Vic 3002

www.surgeons.org/owr

“

It is not just a course
for professional growth,
but also valuable for personal growth and awareness.

”

Operating with Respect
course feedback