

Cheri Ezzell is the executive director of Community Development Support Association, Inc. (CDSA), a non-profit organization that offers more than a dozen different human service programs serving thousands annually as well as providing community planning services. The agency, celebrating 30 years of service in 2010, employs 40 professionals, has an annual budget of 3 million dollars, and an annual payroll of approximately one million dollars. Cheri has been director at CDSA since 2001 and holds a master's degree from the University of Oklahoma.

Cheri is CDSA's primary grant writer and was responsible for preparing grant materials for a successful EPA Brownfields Cleanup application and is currently overseeing completion of the project.

Ezzell lives in Enid, Oklahoma and is married to David Ezzell, an Enid attorney. They have two children and one grandchild.