

TIMOTHY K. UNDERWOOD
Deloitte Consulting
Senior Manager
Real Estate & Location Strategy Solutions

Mr. Underwood is a Senior Manager in Deloitte's Real Estate and Location Strategies group. Mr. Underwood's expertise is focused on assisting Public Services clients in achieving their objectives in enhancing the management of use of their real property assets. He has over 29 years of experience providing asset management, property reuse, environmental, engineering, technical management, environmental regulation, financial management and public policy services to Federal agencies.

Mr. Underwood has worked extensively over the past 21 years with the Department of Defense in the implementation of Base Closure and Realignment activities at multiple closing and realigning bases. This has included support in writing economic development plans, program and project management, relocation planning, facility renovation, customer requirement development and support for security, communication and information technology requirement implementation. Mr. Underwood also analyzes the requirements of stakeholders, identifies issues and options for issue resolution, integrates relocation efforts across stakeholder groups and tracking program progress and milestones. He has also been involved in other Federal real property programs including the establishment of Joint Bases within the DoD, the Federal enhanced use leasing process, supporting the General Services Administration in its Federal Asset Sales program, preparing the Air Force Base Conversion Handbook and in the DoD Management Action Plan process for properties with environmental issues.

Prior to joining Deloitte Consulting Mr. Underwood worked for KPMG, The MITRE Corporation and the United States Environmental Protection Agency. Mr. Underwood holds a Bachelor's of Science in Chemical Engineering from Oklahoma State University.
