

E. Blake Jackson serves as Digital Communications Manager at Chesapeake Energy Corporation, one of the largest natural gas producers in the nation and the most active driller of new wells in the United States. Blake, a former multimedia journalist at Webby Award-nominee NewsOK.com, leads a national social media team of eight from the company's corporate headquarters in Oklahoma City.

Chesapeake's digital communications program is comprised of more than 25 presences spanning various online platforms and has been recognized as an industry leader by the International Association of Business Communicators, Harvard's Nieman Journalism Lab, Ragan Media/PR Daily, SocialMedia.org and Inc. Magazine. Blake lives in Oklahoma City with his wife Whitney, two-year-old daughter Violet and one-year-old son Wyatt. You can find Blake online at www.eblakejackson.com.