Depart from the venue towards the locality of Cardales, situated 90 km outside the city of Buenos Aires, to spend the day in the country at Estancia Santa Susana. The estancia (ranch), owned by the Rossiter family since 1860, extends to 1200 hectares dedicated principally to agriculture, and to a lesser extent to cattle raising and horse breeding. Some years ago, the ranch began to receive visitors, adapting its buildings for them. It consists of a main house and a series of sheds that function as a dining room, pub and grill. The tour begins in the "pulpería" (old pub) where the visitor can enjoy meat, empanadas and wine. Later, pass the dining room to taste authentic barbecue (roast beef, chicken, salads, dessert and coffee). Following lunch a spectacle of dance and musical folklore is presented, a tango demonstration, and afterwards an exhibition of roping and rings games where gauchos display their horsemanship abilities. For those who want to participate more actively, the estancia has horse and carriages for freely enjoying the countryside. Towards the end of the afternoon, a light meal is served that consists of mate (typical green tea) and sweet casseroles. After the meal, we return to the hotels.
