

Le Maire de Paris

Paris, 15 NOV. 2011

Dear Madam,

Paris is being considered to host the Congress of the World Poultry Science Association –WPSA in 2020. I know that I am speaking for all Parisians in expressing the great pleasure that our city would take in hosting this event.

Paris is today's world leader for trade shows, conferences, and congresses. This ranking stands as a testimony to our city's reputation, entrepreneurial spirit, and ability to create and innovate. Each year we receive over 28 million visitors, attracted by this unique city and its famous lifestyle.

Our city can boast of a geographical location facilitating easy access, efficient public transport, state-of-the-art equipment, and high-quality conference venues and accommodations.

I can assure you that our city will make available, and adapt to your special needs, all of the infrastructure necessary to ensure the success of the WPSA congress. Our Paris Convention Bureau will do its best to guarantee that everything will be up to your expectations.

I sincerely hope that you will grant Paris the privilege and honour of hosting your congress in 2020.

Yours faithfully,

Bertrand DELANOË
