ACNS

Australasian Cognitive Neuroscience Society

Australasian Cognitive Neuroscience Society

ACNS is an academic society focused on the scientific study of the biological or brain foundations of mental processes and behaviour.

We welcome members from disciplines such as psychology, neuroscience, cognitive science, psychiatry, neurology, linguistics, computer science, and philosophy, all with an interest in the relationships between the brain, mind, and behaviour.

The ACNS was founded in 2012, with founding members from eight universities across Australia and New Zealand.

We have over 300 members across Australia, New Zealand, and Asia.

The Society hosts the annual ACNS Conference in Nov/Dec each year.
