Adding Value

Data, Information & Knowledge are valuable assets for today's care providers. How do you best manage the quality of these assets throughout their life in your own organisation as well as managing their governance in shared care and collaborative arrangements when it moves 'outside your walls' and back again.

CHIK has brought multiple perspectives to the table.

We thank you for bringing yours.

He has worked with numerous organisations on data management projects including at local, state and federal level.

Richard holds Master of Pharmacy; Registered UK Pharmacist; CAOP assessed in Australia; Master of Public Health (in progress); MSP[®] Advanced Practitioner; DSMD Agile PgM[®], PRINCE2[®] Practitioner, Managing Benefits[®] certification.

Dr John Lambert

Chief Clinical Information Officer
eHealth NSW

Taking up the position of CIO in August 2014, Dr John Lambert brings knowledge and experience from multiple perspectives to the newly formed role. His experience ranges from his work in hands-on Information and Communication Technology development, through to a long history of contribution to major health projects including hospital redevelopments and clinical Information Technology (IT), technology and communication systems, including the Critical Care Advisory Service in Western NSW Local Health District.

Prior to joining eHealth NSW Dr Lambert was Medical Director of Intensive Care at Orange Health Service, an Intensivist with an anaesthetic background, having begun his medical career at Royal Prince Alfred Hospital. Before beginning his medical career Dr Lambert was a Technical Officer for the Australian National Liver Transplant Unit whilst designing electronic devices and writing medical practice management software for a health industry software, hardware and support company.

From an IT perspective he has been writing, selling and supporting database solutions in the clinical domain since 1985 with a strong interest in human factors, user interface design and engineering ergonomic environments that inherently promote safe and efficient care, extending from the architectural issues such as the physical space and layout of clinical areas, acoustic and lighting management, to device hardware and software designs used at the bedside.

Robert Wisniewski

Deputy Chief Executive
Hepatitis NSW

Robert Wisniewski is the Deputy Chief Executive at Hepatitis NSW. He has experience of working with marginalised communities in the not-for-profit sector across the UK, where he managed a variety of HIV-prevention programs. He also developed and managed the assessment arm of the innovative South London HIV Partnership, a collaborative approach to delivering HIV services in London. Robert moved to Australia in 2012 where he gained experience in tobacco control in marginalised populations and viral hepatitis.

A/Prof Meredith Makeham

GP, Researcher, Centre for Health Systems and Safety Research, Macquarie University Member PCEHR Clinical Governance Advisory Group

Associate Professor Meredith Makeham joined the Centre for Health Systems and Safety Research in February 2015. Her major research interest is in incident reporting and learning systems in Primary Care and general practice. She was a Chief Investigator of the NHMRC funded Threats to Australian Patient Safety (TAPS) study, which examined the design and analysis of an anonymous electronic reporting system for errors in general practice. Meredith is also a general practitioner and practices in Sydney.

Meredith is involved in a number of international research collaborations, including the Safer Primary Care Working Group (WHO Patient Safety), currently developing a 'roadmap' for international primary care research priorities in patient safety. She is also part of the professional advisory group based at the Cochrane Institute of Primary Care and Public Health, Cardiff University, undertaking a large UK based study on Primary Care Patient Safety (PISA study), which is examining reported incidents in general practice from the UK's National Reporting and Learning System (NRLS).

Her interest in the use of ICT in general practice and primary care has also led to involvement with the Personally Controlled Electronic Health Record (PCEHR) in Australia, as member of the 'Clinical Governance Advisory Group' (responsible for overseeing audits and potential clinical safety threats associated with the PCEHR), and as a Patient Safety Advisor for the Australian Commission for Safety and Quality in Healthcare (ACSQHC).

Mark has extensive experience in infrastructure design, system implementation and optimisation, and project management. He holds a degree in Applied Science in Applied Biology, majoring in Haematology.

Mr Michael Walsh

Chief Executive and CIO
eHealth NSW

Michael is the inaugural Chief Executive / CIO of eHealth NSW, providing eHealth and ICT to the NSW Health System. Michael has extensive experience at the Government Senior Executive level in both NSW and Queensland and has worked in the private sector including two years as a Principal with PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC).

Michael has led large organisational change programs including major departmental integrations; significant ICT programs including the recovery of the Queensland Health HR/payroll system following a problematic implementation; large hospital infrastructure programs such as the $10billion Queensland Hospital rebuilding program including the Gold Coast University Hospital, Sunshine Coast University Hospital and the Queensland Children's Hospital.

Michael has a strong background in portfolio, program and project management, public private partnerships, public sector contestability, business case development and implementation for major government initiatives, and executive leadership of large and complex organisations.

Commencing his career as a mathematics and science secondary teacher, Michael subsequently qualified as a psychologist. Following completion of an MBA, Michael has worked extensively in a range of policy, service delivery and leadership roles.

Shane Solomon

Managing Director
Telstra Health

Shane Solomon has over 30 years of international and national healthcare management expertise. In April 2013 Shane was appointed to lead Telstra's new Health Business Unit. Shane is also chair of the Independent Hospital Pricing Authority (IHPA) and holds a number of other Board positions across Australia.

Prior to joining Telstra, Shane was KPMG's National Partner in Charge, Healthcare. In this role, he worked with State and Commonwealth Governments, along with private sector health organisations. Shane was previously the Chief Executive of the Hong Kong Hospital Authority, managing Hong Kong's 57,000 public hospital staff. During his 5 year tenure, he implemented significant funding and service quality reforms, including a casemix pay for performance model, the ongoing development of a comprehensive integrated e-health system.

In Victoria, Shane was Under-Secretary of Health at the Department of Human Services (as it then was) where he was responsible for managing the funding system (including casemix) for Victoria, and performance and governance of Melbourne metropolitan health services. He was responsible for developing the Hospital Admission Risk Program and governance reforms to Victoria's public hospital system.

Shane was the first Group Chief Executive Officer of the integrated Sisters of Mercy Victorian hospital and aged care services group, merging public hospitals, private hospitals, aged care services, and palliative care services into a single new organisation and expanding the Sisters of Mercy mission from 5 entities to 12.

Sally Glass

Managing Director, CHIK Services CEO & Publisher, eHealthspace.org

A healthcare and IT professional with over 20 years of health experience, Sally has a detailed understanding of health systems, government, IT, and the delivery of health care in online connected environments. A networker to the core, her passion for making connections delivers valued services in Australia and globally and drives CHIK's extensive networks, projects and communication channels.

Sally established CHIK Services in 2002 and in 2010 established eHealthspace.org – the voice of healthcare – an interactive online community for health professionals, executives and industry participants.

Sally believes that while ehealth systems and processes are vital to the delivery of health care, people, rather than technology, are the key.

Mr Pete Knox MS, BS

Executive Vice President, Chief Learning and Innovation Officer Bellin Health System

Pete has been associated with Bellin Health System in Green Bay, Wisconsin in a variety of leadership roles for the past 35 years. Bellin has been on the leading edge of quality for many years and is recognized nationally for superior results. Currently Pete is Executive Vice President, Chief Learning and Innovation Officer. In this role he is responsible for population health strategies, physician networks, employer strategies, learning and innovation, and execution of strategy.

In addition, he is a consultant for health care and non health care organizations. He is a Senior Fellow at the Institute for Healthcare Improvement (IHI) and serves on faculty for a number of programs. He is also on the board of trustees for the University of Massachusetts Health System in Worcester. His book titled "The Business of Healthcare" is being used by a number of universities and organizations across the country and he is currently working on a second book "The Strategy Execution Playbook". Pete is a frequent speaker on strategy, strategy alignment, population health and accountable care in the US and Canada. In addition he serves on the strategic advisory board for HFMA related to the transformation of healthcare from fee for service to value based payment.

Ms Petrea King

Founder and CEO of the Quest for Life Foundation

Petrea King is CEO of the Quest for Life Foundation. A best-selling author of books and meditation practices, a frequent keynote speaker, facilitator, teacher and trainer, Petrea has been a monthly guest on ABC's Midweek Conference and Nightlife for the past 15 years discussing the challenges of living a meaningful life in the midst of illness, trauma and tragedy. Petrea holds qualifications as a naturopath, herbalist, clinical hypnotherapist, yoga and meditation teacher.

With a long history as a consumer of the healthcare system, Petrea lives with chronic pain after undergoing multiple surgery as a young teenager to enable her to walk, then further surgery, including knee replacements in her adult life. In 1983 Petrea was diagnosed with acute myeloid leukaemia and was not expected to live. Meditation and the integration of past traumatic experiences, including the recent suicide of her brother Brenden, became paramount in her recovery, much of which was spent meditating in a monastery near Assisi, Italy.

Petrea is a passionate advocate for person-centred care that addresses the physical, mental and emotional aspects of health and healing and the influence of the context and story each person holds. The Quest for Life Centre in Bundanoon supports retreats and extensive work in rural and regional communities affected by drought, floods, fires, suicides, domestic violence and grief. Programs for people with cancer are also delivered at the Sydney Adventist Hospital. To date Quest for Life has helped more than 100,000 people living with physical and mental health issues.

Mr Terry Symonds

Director Sector Performance, Quality and Rural Health Department of Health and Human Services, Victoria

Terry is responsible for funding and performance of Victorian public hospitals and health services, in a range of domains including financial stewardship, access to services, and quality and safety of care.

Prior to joining the department in 2007, Terry held management positions within tertiary acute health services, community mental health services, NGOs and health departments in other jurisdictions.

Terry holds postgraduate qualifications in health administration.
