

Jennifer Gooden is the Sustainability Director for the City of Oklahoma City, where she works to improve energy efficiency, conservation, and environmental impact. Activities include energy benchmarking and audits, facility retrofits, a CNG fast-fill station retrofit, recycling efforts, a green home loan program, review of building codes and historic preservation guidelines, a bike share program, and public education.